

I imagine that today I am to die. I ask for time to be alone and write down for my friends a sort of testament for which the points that follow could serve as chapter titles.

These things I have loved in life:

I have tasted:

Looked at:

Smelled:

Heard:

Touched:

These experiences I have cherished:

These ideas have brought me liberation:

These beliefs I have outgrown:

These convictions I have lived by:

These are the things I have lived for:

These insights I have gained in the school of life:

insights into God:

the world:

human nature:

Jesus Christ:

love:

religion:

prayer:

These risks I took, these dangers I have courted:

These sufferings have seasoned me:

These lessons life has taught me:

These influences have shaped my life: persons, occupations, books, events.

These Scripture texts have lit my path:

These things I regret about my life:

These are my life's achievements:

These persons are enshrined within my heart:

These are my unfulfilled desires:

I choose an ending for this document: A poem—my own or someone else's; or a prayer; a sketch or a picture from a magazine; a Scripture text; or anything that I judge would be an apt conclusion to my testament

